VOL. 53 — No. 43

American + Red Cross

During the month, September 15 through October 15, the local Red Cross served the community with a staff of workers in the Bay St. Louis Post Office. They assisted and advised in the mailing of Christmas parcels for overseas shipments. The following ladies served daily, under the direction of their chairman, Mrs. R. W. Gaston, and included Mrs. J. M. Caldwell, Mrs. B. B. Walker, Miss Emily Eien, and Mrs. Henry Dooley. Much credit is given to these ladies for the time which they so willingly gave and the Chapter would like to express its thanks for their services.

One thousand utility covers were made and shipped by the Chapter for use in hospitals for the armed forces.

$259.88 was realized from the sale of scrap paper during the present drive. This sum was donated to the Red Cross Camp and Hospital Council for the purchase of various articles which may be needed for the boys.

On Wednesday last, Mrs. Leo Seal, Mrs. Briscoe Goldman, Mrs. William Pitcairn, and Miss Kathleen Renshaw attended the regular meeting of the Camp and Hospital Council, at Gulfport Field. The filling of Christmas boxes for convalescing soldiers was planned.

A very nice, and much appreciated, gesture of the Bay-Waveland Garden Club, working with the Red Cross, is the sending of flowers monthly to the Gulfport Field Hospital. This past month, quantities of beautiful Zinnias and a lovely potted plant were the gifts of this organization. The Garden Club is to be commended for the cheer which their flowers bring to the unfortunate sick.

Donations from the Chapter during the past week include ten complete layettes made by the Production Unit, and given to Gulfport Field Hospital. Various magazines and two baseball bats, requested by the Camp and Hospital Council, were also sent by this Chapter. Twenty-five pounds of scrap leather was sent to the craft school. This is a part of a program for the rehabilitation of our men who have returned from overseas.

Workers are badly needed—do your share either by working in the Surgical Dressing Rooms in the Masonic Temple Bldg., or by sewing for the Production Unit. The Surgical Dressings as you know must be turned out regularly, so that our County may keep its standing in National Red Cross. Work has slackened lately, please give a little time to this most necessary cause. In the Production Rooms are kit bags to be made up. These bags give so much comfort and add the little necessary touch to help your boy when he is shipped overseas. For his convenience can't you find time to make a few? Also to be made by the Production Center are 100 bedroom slippers to be used for convalescent men who have been sent back from active duty to hospitals in the States. With this amount of work to be done before the end of November it can readily be seen how badly workers are needed. Won't you give a little time?

Home From Overseas Duty

Jack Garriga, Merchant Seaman, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. O. Garriga, of this city, is at home from overseas duty. A graduate of Bay High he joined the Merchant Marines in May of 1943 and has been on foreign duty in both the Atlantic and Pacific.

Jack says he has been in Scotland, Ireland, Wales, England, France and in the Hawaiian group but says there is no place like Bay St. Louis. He has been in several tight places when there seemed no way out but death. When asked just how they feel he said you begin to think of home. He looks well in spite of foreign service and is preparing to enjoy his leave which ends November 11.

Jack says the Merchant Marine is a swell outfit and says that the ships well stocked libraries which mean much to the sailors. He says that this is one branch of the service that is not much known of but it is a large factor in our fight for peace.

University, Miss., Oct. 25—Emile Gex, Jr., of Bay St. Louis was elected by the law students at the University of Mississippi last week to represent the Law School on the Associated Student Body. Gex received his B. A. degree here before entering the Law School.

Captain Seals Speer In The Pacific Area

The following by Earle Houck, Far East Air Forces Public Relations Office, is taken from a Bogalusa paper: "The Story of Captain Seals S. Speer and his medical men is one of the dramatic stories behind the success of the Fifth Air Forces famed Jolly Roger outfit which has turned out to be a heavy bomber headache for the Japs in the Pacific theater of war.

Combat crew members whom Captain Speer has patched up and sent back into the sky insist that even as the mechanics get credit for keeping the bombers flying so should the Captain be given credit for keeping the men flying.

The officer from Ringold, Louisiana, has six assistants in his medical unit and all but one of these enlisted men have been awarded the Soldier's Medal for service above and beyond the call of duty. Jolly Roger men like to talk about the way they went into a flaming bomber to rescue the crew after it had crashed near its base.

Captain Speer's quiet smile is as much a part of the Jolly Roger outfit as the skull and crossed bones insignia on the tails of their huge four-motored Liberators. And it is at its best when he pauses to stress what "good boys" he has working with him.

At a moments notice he will proudly explain that each of his boys can do the work of the other and will go on to relate how they have had to render medical aid in the jungle with flashlights or lantern and their insistence on staying beside him while he worked in a blackout with enemy bombers overhead.

Perhaps one of the main reasons why Captain Speer rates so highly with the men is the fact that he often goes along with them aboard a Liberator on the first raid on the Jap Base at Rabaul. He added to his medical knowledge by attending the AAF School of Aviation Medicine at Randolph Field, Texas, and explains he likes to study certain physical reactions of the men at various altitudes and under unusual conditions.

In addition to handling all the routine illness, sanitation problems and medical records of the unit, he also manages to be on the line as each bomber takes off and returns to the field.

From deep in the jungles of New Guinea this quiet untiring hero to those at home to realize the importance of blood plasma. He thoughtfully remarks they will probably never know how great a contribution they are making to men in combat zones of the world.

More than just a flight surgeon is this unsung hero of the Pacific. He is for those who work with him reveal that he has exhibited a remarkable knowledge of psychology in handling severe cases of homesickness which left untreated might result in a very real physical symptom.

Dr. Speer is the son of Dr. and Mrs. W. S. Speer former residents of this city. He is a graduate of Bay High and of the Tulane School of Medicine.

It is a pleasure to record these interesting stories of former men of our town and young Dr. Speer is doing a great work for there is much more to the story than is recorded here one of which is the faith of the natives of New Guinea in the "white doctor."

Former S. S. C. Football Star Outstanding Army Player

Felix (Doc) Blanchard, of Bishopville, S. C., former student and star football player of St. Stanislaus has risen to fame as an outstanding football star of West Point. Colonel Biff Jones and Lt. Colonel Red Blaik are already comparing "Doc" with Norman Standlee, the great fullback of Clark Shaughnessy's Stanford Rose Bowl team.

To quote Harry Grayson, N. E. A. Service Staff Editor: "Blanchard not only hits a hole with clocklike precision, but he either runs over or brushes opponents aside by dropping and lifting his shoulder at the point of impact. Once through the line he keeps his feet."

"In addition to this, Blanchard can kick the ball out of the stadium when punting and boots it into the end zone on kickoffs."

It is interesting to note that this Army star had most of his pre-college football training at St. Stanislaus College, which has turned out many other outstanding stars of the gridiron.

Dance, Benefit Of X-Ray Machine

A benefit dance will be sponsored by the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club with the cooperation of all civic clubs, to raise funds to purchase an X-ray machine for the local Kings Daughters Hospital.

Navy War Bond Purchases In Sept. Over $59,000,000

New Orleans, Oct. 25—The second highest monthly volume in the history of the Navy War Bond program was reached in September, when bond purchases by uniformed and civilian personnel totaled $59,257,925. This figure, exceeded only by the July 1944 volume of $78,587,509, brought the total purchases since October 1941 to $796,979,542.

September purchases showed an increase of 94.6 per cent over the $30,477,763 volume of the same month last year.

Analysis of the September 1944 results indicates that $38,278,925 were allotment purchases by uniformed personnel of the Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard; $18,287,250 were purchases by civilian under the payroll deduction plan, and $2,696,750 were cash purchases.

Library Notes

The library has been so pleased to have had members of the Boy Scout troops come up for instruction in book binding and in this way win their merit badges. It is always a pleasure for the library to be able to help the young people.

The library is now open at the noon hour on Wednesdays of each week for the accommodation of the school boys and girls who cannot get to the library after school. If the school library does not have the particular book wanted the library may be able to supply it. No library can have all books and it is the purpose of the library to aid the school whenever it is possible to do so.

PAPER SALVAGE DRIVE NETS $259.88

Proceeds to be Allocated to Gulfport Area Field and Hospital Council

Not long ago, this paper carried information on the service of the Red Cross known as the Field and Hospital Council. The functionings of this service were given briefly. However, since the demands on this particular branch of Red Cross work grows daily, we thought it advisable from time to time to give newer information. Requests are made through Commanding Officers, by the Service Men, for articles for their amusement, comfort, or convenience that are not Government Issue. These requests are taken care of by the Council through donations made by individual organizations. We would like to impress at this time that this is the only branch of Red Cross where an outside organization may work and not lose its identity.

In other words, should any organization care to do work for the Red Cross, using its own name, it works with the Field and Hospital Council. Such service as is given goes to the men in Camp with the name of the sponsoring group, and not as Red Cross. Thus we have a service of Personnel Individuality.

In our community we have many number of Civic clubs and groups, who are affiliated with this service; however, we are well aware of the fact that there must be numerous others who would like to do work for the Service men, under their own names. To those who are not acquainted with this work, and would like to be active, we would suggest contacting the Office of the Red Cross, in the Courthouse Bldg., for full information.

The monies raised by the recent scrap paper salvage were allocated to this particular service, and will be used in the spreading of Thanksgiving and Christmas Cheer for all hospitalized service men in this area. Hancock County is affiliated with Gulfport Field, Veterans' Hospital, Camp Kittiwake, and the U. S. Merchant Marine Cadet Basic School.

This work is most important as it touches a personal element in Red Cross Service. It is new; it is interesting; it is a touch of home to a lonely man in camp from a known fellowman.

Bay High Senior Class Entertains Football Team And Faculty

The Bay High Senior Class entertained the football team and the High School faculty at a tacky party at the school gymnasium on Saturday evening.

The costumes created much mirth and first and second prizes went to Mary Catherine Bennet and Dan Strahan and Lela Bass and Oscar Davis.

The floor show was both clever and entertaining and the prize for the first number went to Melanie Bourgeois.

The Bay High orchestra led by Miss Shannon furnished the music for dancing and the spectators of the floor show threw pennies and nickles to the performers the number thrown indicating the popularity of the act. These coins were later gathered up and given to the orchestra for their sheet music fund.

The teachers attending were Mrs. George Curet, Mrs. Lucile Anderson, Misses Julia Blaize, Margaret Turner, Mable Shannon and S. J. Ingram who scorned dignity and costumes as a college freshman.

The evening closed with the seniors forming a circle around their sponsor Mrs. Curet and singing their class song.

Accidentally Shot In Left Foot While Hunting

Willis Rhodes, Seaman 2c, Navy, was accidentally shot in the left foot on Wednesday afternoon when he had gone squirrel hunting. Mrs. Rhodes said he was hunting with a double barrel shot gun and had emptied one barrel and as he pulled back the hammer he had pointed the gun downward and it exploded, the discharge entering the third and fourth toes.

He was brought to the local Kings Daughters Hospital and later removed to the Naval Hospital at Gulfport where it was necessary to amputate one toe.

Young Rhodes was at home from Camp Peary, Virginia, on a ten-day leave and had gone to Fenton, the former home of Mrs. Rhodes, for a squirrel hunting.

A resident of this city he is a graduate of Bay High and a son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rhodes. His wife is the former Miss Grace Garriga.

At this writing he is reported as feeling better and no serious reaction to the injury is anticipated.

Sgt. Jos. P. Favre, husband of Mrs. Evelyn Monti Favre, who has been in service since May 2, 1942, is now on duty in Italy.

NATIONAL WAR FUND DRIVE CLOSED WITH AMOUNT IN EXCESS OF QUOTA

The National War Fund Drive for Hancock County closed with an amount subscribed several hundred dollars in excess of the assessed quota of $3375.

The drive was completed in nine days time but exact figures are not available because of the several outlying districts not having turned in their total.

There was evidence throughout the entire drive of a splendid team work and the spontaneous response to requests for donations is in a great measure due to the ground work of the Boy Scouts who carried literature into the homes preceding the opening of the drive. The "get together" breakfast was another incentive and each individual worker going out with a determination to make the drive a success which predominated throughout the campaign. At no time was there a letting down on the part of committees and workers in the city and throughout the county.

The responses are an evidence that the local public are war conscious and well aware that the fight is still on.

Publicly and privately Mrs. George R. Rea county chairman and Mrs. Roger Boh, co-chairman have expressed their appreciation of the un-daunted cooperation of not only their workers but of the public as a whole.

The school age boys and girls have shown that they are fully cognizant of their part in the war work on the home front and have sacrificed to contribute to the cause in a big way. The student body of the Bay St. Louis Central School contributed $169 with no contributions taken from any one but the students. St. Joseph Academy contributed $118.64 and St. Stanislaus' contribution was $121.68.

Miss Evelyn Lacoste donated a handsome hand crocheted luncheon set which netted a substantial sum to the fund.

This is a splendid showing for the county and it is not to be doubted that the men in service are glad to know that the folks back home have not forgotten them.

Maintenance of present tremendous farm and industrial production is the key to the postwar reconversion program outlined by OPA Administrator Chester E. Bowles in a memorandum issued last week.

Bowles, in the memorandum to OPA Advisory Committees, advocates a price control program extending into the immediate postwar period that will seek to balance inflationary pressures caused by the release of huge wartime savings and the resultant desire to buy, and, at the same time, deflationary pressures expected to result in part from the Government's cut-back of wartime spending.

To be effective, Bowles said the prices must be set at a level high enough to encourage continued industrial production and yet low enough for farmers, in particular, to buy necessary farm machinery and raw products so that present wartime record farm production can continue. Pointing out that an attempt to re-turn to 1940 levels of production might mean a period of inflation then collapse such as the nation experienced after the last war, Bowles said sustained high purchasing power of farmers will furnish one of the largest and most profitable markets for industrial products. At the same time, maintenance of present high wage rates and industrial employment will provide a continued market for farm products.

The proposed program by the OPA Administration calls for elimination of price controls as quickly as production can supply a demand intensified by nearly three years of scarcity.

Dollar-and-cent maximum prices have been established by the Office of Price Administration on four major food items such as meat, poultry, canned sausage items which retailers open and sell un-canned in slices and pieces.

These items are spiced luncheon, spiced ham, pressed ham, boneless and bone-in and chopped.

In most cases the new ceiling prices will mean some reduction of prices at retail level, OPA said.

Fresh cranberries for home consumption have been brought under price control at all levels from the country shipper through the retail price for cranberries is expected to be about 41 cents per pound. The season average return to growers will be about $24.23 per 100-pound barrel.

The Office of Price Administration has lifted all price control from grapes sold in the fresh market for home consumption.

THEY ANSWER THE CALL

THAT the people of Hancock County are sincere and mean to stand back of their fighting men, has again been exemplified in the National War Fund Drive. We were the second county in the state to go over the top.

This gives Hancock County a rather enviable record. It has yet to fail to meet any quota or assignment that has been given in the war effort.

Much of the war work throughout the county has been carried on by the women. Thoroughly organized and with a "never die" spirit, they have worked indefatigably, day after day in every war effort that has come to the front and have been instrumental in seeing that Hancock County has gone over the top each time.

This group of women deserves much credit, as everyone knows that drives are not child's play. It takes thorough organization and hard work to accomplish the purpose.

Much of the credit, of course, must be given to those who carry on the work, nevertheless, we cannot overlook the fact that full credit must be given to the people of Hancock County for their generosity and patriotic response to each appeal that has been made to them. They have contributed cheerfully, time after time, and very few are the occasions when a refusal is made.

This little county has contributed much to the war effort in men and money and until yet this spirit has not dimmed.

On the heels of the National War Fund Drive comes the sixth War Loan, and we feel that again the county will go over the top. This drive will be under the capable direction of Mr. Walter J. Gex, Jr., and we ask for him, your undivided support, so that at the conclusion of the Drive, our colors will be flying high, the county will have again gone over the top, and that it may well be said, "Well, done, citizens of Hancock County."

THE NAZIS ARE ASKING FOR IT!

THERE have been numerous predictions that the Germans, once defeated in war and unable to oppose the United Nations along conventional military lines, will resort to guerrilla warfare and gangster tactics to make the occupation of Germany as costly as possible.

Consequently there are grave implications in the exhortation of Reich Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels to the German people to present the Allies with a "fanatical population" and to harry forces of occupation by guerrilla-type warfare.

If the majority of the German people carry out the suggestion of Goebbels they will probably succeed in killing additional Allied soldiers. This would be unfortunate in view of the useless nature of these casualties, but the more serious implications involved in such a fanatical course are of stern consequence to the German people themselves.

When the German armies have been broken up and rendered helpless as military forces, the Allied armies of occupation will necessarily apply rigorous and severe regulations to the German population. If thereafter the German people resort to a gangster-type of assassination, the Allied High Command will have no option but to take punitive and retaliatory action.

We would not like to see such things happen, even in Germany, but if they must occur, let us remember that the Germans asked for it.

MOSCOW TALKS IMPORTANT

THE visit of Prime Minister Winston Churchill to Moscow, where he conferred with Marshal Joseph Stalin is a matter of extreme importance to the future of the people of the world.

Apparently, the two leaders met in an atmosphere of extraordinary cordiality and were able to reach satisfactory agreement upon most of the questions that occupied their attention.

The fact that the United States was not represented by its President is not a matter of concern. This government was fully informed and consulted on all matters and Ambassador Harriman was an important participant in the various meetings.

The future peace of the world depends very largely upon the ability of Great Britain and Russia to get along together in Europe. Without a genuine friendship, the Continent would soon be divided into two groups, one adhering to Great Britain and the other depending upon the Soviet. This condition would inevitably lead to another war as the difficult questions of peace-time years are faced without the hearty cooperation of the war-time effort.

FOREST FIRES COSTLY

"FIRE still is the No. 1 problem of the forestry industry," declares G. H. Collingswood, who blames incendiarism and the carelessness of smokers and campers for nearly two out of every three forest fires in the United States.

Mr. Collingswood calls attention to the annual destruction of thirty million to forty million acres of timber lands by fire. This is an enormous loss which can be materially reduced by organized efforts to fight forest fires and timely campaigns to persuade smokers and campers to be more careful.

In many sections of the country, forests are deliberately burned out and there are still some people who believe that occasional fires improve forest land. This notion has been exploded by scientific experiments which reveal very clearly the enormous damage done to growing timber.

There are many acres of land in the United States that are unfit for the production of crops but admirably suited to the production of a long-term crop, the growth of timber. An increasing number of farmers are beginning to realize this possibility and many of them are carefully fostering the growth of trees.

"IMPATIENT YEARS" AT A. & G. THEATRE SUNDAY-MONDAY

To anyone seeing Columbia's romantic comedy, "The Impatient Years," playing Sunday and Monday at the A. & G. Theatre there will be many things which will linger in the memory.

There's the story itself, which tells of a soldier's return, after almost two years' absence, to his bride of one day. Written by associate producer Virginia Van Upp, it is timely, human and imbued with a tenderness and understanding for the real humor behind such a situation.

This same story will happen tomorrow in millions of homes and hearts. You'll laugh and cry with this boy and girl so deep yet so muddled in their love.

Jean Arthur Charm Then there's the charm of Jean Arthur. She has never been more sympathetic, more comic. The humor behind her portrayal is real and she never misses by even a hair-breadth in bringing out each subtlety.

Nor are her broader comedy moments just broad. Never does she lose her sense of balance and projection of reality. But that is to be expected of Jean.

Charles Coburn also doesn't fail in what we have learned to expect from him. As Jean's father, who really has the idea which straightens the lovers out, he is warm, yet enough of a "buttersky" to be comic as well.

And now we come to the other star, Lee Bowman. We liked Lee Bowman in "Cover Girl." He gave us an excellent performance. But we must admit that he was a surprise to us in "The Impatient Years."

Human Comedy Other members of the cast, even in very minor roles, give the stars every ounce of support to make "The Impatient Years" what it is—one of the most human and feeling comedies on the screen today.

Phil Brown as boarder and baby-sitter, Vic Beaver; Charley Grapevine as an ubiquitous bellboy; Grant Mitchell as a hotel clerk; all are there with splendid fill-in performances and characterizations to keep "The Impatient Years" real.

ORTTE THEATRE SUNDAY AND MONDAY "IN SOCIETY"

Bud Abbott & Lou Costello
In Their Funniest of All!

Two of the nation's funniest men Bud Abbott and Lou Costello, who have been absent from the screen for more than a year, are to be seen at the Ortte Theatre in the funniest picture they ever made—Universal's "In Society" in which they are plumbers.

"In Society" tells the hilarious story of what happens when Abbott and Costello are called to the home of a society woman to do some repair work. They arrive during a costume ball, dressed, naturally, as plumbers, but are mistaken for guests.

The things that happen thereafter could only happen to Abbott and Costello, who find themselves in society with a vengeance. There are many really riotous sequences, including a fox hunt to end all fox hunts, which winds up with the fox chasing Abbott and Costello.

"In Society," produced by Edmund L. Hartman, is packed with so many laughs, gags and original Abbott and Costello antics, as to compensate fans for the comedians' too-long absence from the country's screens, due to Costello's illness.

An outstanding cast of supporting players includes Marion Hutton, young, blonde singing sister of Betty Hutton, romantic newcomer, Kirby Grant, Anne Gillis, who not so long ago was playing tomboy roles, and overnight blossoms out as a glamour girl; Arthur Treacher, Thomas Gomez, Charles Coleman, Will Osborne and his orchestra.

Jean Yarbrough, who demonstrates a thorough understanding of Abbott and Costello comedy, directed.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Trouble Often Starts at Home

Read the other day where some folks have put up $100,000 to establish a bureau to combat intolerance and prejudice.

Reckon we all agree that that's a mighty worthy cause. But I wonder if tolerance, like so many other things, doesn't begin at home.

You take a family where Ma objects to hubby's smoking in the parlor; and Pa can't stand his wife's hats; and they both yell at Sis for liking to listen to swing music—and you've got the seeds of trouble! Trouble that spreads to intolerance among neighbors, and intolerance among nations.

From where I sit, you can put your faith in the family that lives and lets live—where Pa enjoys his smoke and maybe a mellow glass of beer or two; and Ma wears funny looking hats and likes 'em; and Sis grows up as healthfully full of spirit as a child should be.

ORTTE THEATRE WED-THURSDAY "JANE EYRE"

The greatest love story of all times, comes Wednesday and Thursday to the Ortte Theatre and it is to be reported at once that "Jane Eyre," amazingly popular as it has been with millions of readers, is destined to far surpass that success as a motion picture.

Since Charlotte Bronte's celebrated romance was first published, it has appeared in dozens of editions and has been a continuous best-seller. Now, on the screen, it attains new stature and greatness and is a proud newcomer to the long list of cinematic achievements of 20th Century-Fox.

In the leading roles of Edward Rochester and Jane Eyre, it seems, that they were destined to play are two of the screen's outstanding stars, Orson Welles and Joan Fontaine. Despite the acclaim that has greeted previous performances of these players in "Jane Eyre," each reaches a milestone in their brilliant careers.

"Jane Eyre" has been described as "a love story every woman would die a thousand deaths to live." A girl with no home, no family, who has known only the cruelty of women and the bestiality of men, Jane's path crosses that of a man whose passion-tossed life has been spent searching for one woman he could love with all the depths of his soul.

Matching the superlative performances of Welles and Miss Fontaine, an exceptional cast lends life and breath to every moment of the story. Especially to be commended are Margaret O'Brien, who plays Edward Rochester's young ward, Peggy Ann Garner, in the part of Jane as a child; John Sutton, as Dr. Rivers, and Sara Allgood, Henry Daniell, Agnes Moorehead, Aubrey Mather, Edith Barrett.

A quiet but pretty wedding was that of Miss Vivian Marie Egloff and Mr. R. Terrell Perkins were married on October 20 at 7 p. m., at the home of Mrs. Gladys W. Chapman with only members of the two families and a few close friends present.

The bride wore a dark blue coat suit and white satin blouse, a dark blue hat and matching accessories. Her corsage was of pink rose buds. She had as her matron or honor Mrs. Gladys Chapman and Mr. Perkins had as his best man his brother H. Grady Perkins.

The three tiered wedding cake was cut by the bride on a lace covered table bright with fall flowers and silver holders held lighted tapers.

The couple left for a trip to Pensacola and other points in Florida. The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Egloff of this city, is a graduate of St. Joseph Academy and held the position of chief clerk in the local rationing board office.
